ADVISORY: INDUSTRIAL ACTION AT THE PORT OF BUSAN

The Korean Port and Transport Workers' Union has confirmed a full strike at the Port of Busan container terminals, following the breakdown of wage negotiations.

Industrial action is scheduled to begin at 06:00 on 20 October 2026. The union has announced a two-week action; terminal operators currently expect normal operations to resume on 3 November 2026, subject to the outcome of mediation.

During the action, no vessel loading or discharge will take place at the Port of Busan container terminals (North Port and New Port). Gate operations will be limited to empty container returns.

Shippers with export cargo from the Gyeongsang provinces should expect delays. Carriers are evaluating diversions, but alternative capacity at other Korean ports is limited at short notice.

This advisory will be updated as negotiations progress.
